PVMS software may be installed in advance of obtaining camera licenses for streaming video.

This software may be installed as is for evaluation of the software. The person installing the software may also begin configuring the software before the camera licenses are provided. We offer PVMS as a 30-day software trial for customers and security integrators evaluating the software with their own security cameras.

Camera licenses are manually issued by the LENSEC team. If you need licenses, contact the tech support team or submit a license request via the LENSEC website.

The support page on the website includes instructions on licensing and authorization of PVMS software. The person installing the software must obtain a license key generated by our team.

During the software installation, a server key generator is installed onto the server. Opening this applet will produce the Server Key necessary to generate a license. Alternatively, the PC's MAC address may also be submitted for license key generation.

For each instance of Perspective VMS® there are software pre-requisites which may include enabling select server roles and installing an instance of Microsoft SQL Server. During an installation, these pre-requisites may already be installed or installed automatically by the Installer Wizard.

LENSEC provides a Perspective VMS® Installation Reference Guide that provides step-by-step information for software installation.

As mentioned, licenses are manually issued by the LENSEC team upon verification of software purchase. Your licenses should be activated within 1 business day of the request submission. If you have an emergency need, please contact us via the tech support number listed above.

If you need PVMS Tools, we have them available on the website. This includes links for the appropriate versions of Microsoft SQL Server and SQL Express. Please find the PVMS software download tools here.
